New Army In Action On Rhine

Serving Allied Advance

The bridge at Remagen, Germany, over which men and material of the United States First Army are pouring, stretches across the Rhine. Smoke rises from the far end of the bridge which is constantly under fire from nazi heavy guns located in the distant hills.

Stars and Stripes Officially Raised Over Iwo by Navy

20,000 Japs Killed on Island; Manila Railroad is Opened

U. S. Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Guam, March 15—(AP)—Waving atop a Japanese bunker, the Stars and Stripes caught the breeze today over blood-stained Iwo, 750 miles from Tokyo, signalling that the island has been cut away from the empire of Nippon after 35 years.

But the 25-day-old fight for the island went on with three Marine divisions resigned to the grim task of killing the last enemy and adding him to a toll already exceeding 20,000. The desperate foe is even attaching booby traps to dead Marines to slow the advance.

While stiffly resisting survivors of the Nipponese garrison yielded gains up to 400 yards yesterday to the Marines near the north end, the United States flag was raised formally at the south end in the shadow of Mt. Suribachi.

A proclamation, read by Marine Col. D. A. Stafford, Spokane, Wash., suspended "all powers of government of the Japanese empire" and vested them in Adm. Chester W. Nimitz as military governor of the island. Marine artillery almost drowned out Stafford's words.

Silent on Marine Losses

This morning's communique announced 20,000 "as a very close approximation of enemy killed"—but extended to 20 days an offfficial silence on the heavy cost paid by the Marines to win Iwa as an air base and eliminate it as a menace along the B-29 route to Papan.

The last American casualty figure from Guam, covering only the first three days of the fight, was 5,732, including 644 killed. An indication of how these have increased was given March 5 at Washington by Navy Secretary Forrestal who said Marine dead alone had reached 2,050 as of Feb. 21.

The morning communique disclosed that Navy and Marine as well as Army planes have begun to fly from Iwo's captured airfields, so near Japan that fighters from them will be able to escort the B-29s.

MANILA RAILROAD OPEN

Manila, March 15—(AP)—Railroad transportation to Manila was reopened today with Gen. Douglas MacArthur riding the new flag-bedecked Diesel locomotive of the first Lingayen-Manila freight. The arrival of the 16-car freight train came less than 24 hours after beaching the first LST's in Manila harbor after the wreckage-blocked breakwater channel was partially cleared.

The opening of rail and water shipping route is a big stride in getting supplies to Manila and Luzon fighting fronts.

Cheering, waving Filipinos lined the tracks at every crossroad to wave to the general and get their first look at the modern Diesel locomotive, which bore big signs: "General MacArthur Special".

At Manila station, the general said: "the rapid reconstruction of this railroad represents a great engineering feat. It is construction, thank God, not destruction".

MacArthur reported today that Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving's 24th Division Infantrymen, veterans of Leyte, Bataan and Corregidor, invaded Romblon and Simara islands at night and "attained complete tactical surprise".

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

There is what looks like a mystery of importance behind the persistent reports from Sweden and Switzerland that nazi Field Marshal Von Rundstedt has been dismissed as commander-in-chief in western Europe because of the U. S. First Army's coup in capturing the Remagen railway bridge across the Rhine.

If it's true that Rundstedt has been thrown overboard, there certainly is more in the development than meets the naked eye. When you stop to analyze the situation the first thing you came up against is the improbability that inefficiency is the underlying charge against him, despite the American victory at Remagen. He isn't inefficient, but on the contrary is one of the best generals in the German army. It's only a couple of months ago that Britain's Field Mrshaal Montgomery said:

'I used to think Rommel was good, but Von Rundstedt could 'knock him for six' (a cricket term which is the equivalent of baseball's hit-over-the-fence). He (Rundstedt) is the best general I have come up against in this war. I've got his picture on the wall of my room alongside Rommel's."

That's great praise, especially coming from a man of such distinction as Montgomery. I was much impressed on reading it, because Montgomery personally had told me how highly he regarded Rommel as a soldier back in 1942 when the two were dueling in the North African desert. "Monty" had a life-size head-and-shoulders photo of Marshal Rommel in his

Persons in military service at exempt from renewing licenses.

Applications will be distributed throughout the state to car dealers, notaries and public places.

Nazi Peace Feeler Early This Month Partly Confirmed

Approach to Allied Representatives Recently is Revealed

Stockholm, March 15—(AP) — An unofficial British statement today confirmed reports that a German approach to allied representatives was attempted here a few days ago with a view to a possible armistice, but said it was immediately rejected.

"An approach was attempted a few days ago through a third party to a junior member of the legation staff", the unofficial British statement said.

"The third party was at once told that the British legation was not in the least interested in any such approach".

Apparently the German effort to make contact with the allies came only through the British because the American legation denied that any feeler had been attempted there.

The third party mentioned in the unofficial announcement apparently was a Swedish business man who, other informants said,

Predict Stalemate on Manpower Bill

Washington, March 15—(AP)—Poles apart, senate and house versions of manpower legislation went before a conference committee today, waved along by a Republican assertion that the move means a hopeless stalemate.

The house, by a vote of 211 to 177, refused yesterday to accept a milder senate substitute for its own work-or-jail bill. The vote sent the manpower controversy to a senate-house committee charged with working out a compromise.

But both groups are heavily weighted in favor of the measures that came from their respective chambers. Rep. Halleck (R-Ind) predicted a statemate will result and the country may get no manpower legislation.

The argument against the house bill brought from Rep. Chelf (D-Ky), recently-discharged air force major, the assertion:

"There is going to be a day of reckoning in this country when these boys come back. x x x May God have mercy on the political souls of those who fight against this bill today".

On the other hand Rep. Harness (R-Ind) declared American youth now is "fighting against enslavement and that's exactly what would happen" under the work-or-jail bill.

Casualties of Army and Navy Since Pearl Harbor Reach Total of 839,589

Washington, March 15—(AP)—America's 50,000,000 taxpayers today tossed in the last hundred millions of their 1944 taxes, boosting wartime revenue past $100,000,000,000—a figure surpassing all prior collections in American history.

Tax experts estimated government collections for 1944 at $43,000,000,000, highest on record and comparing with pre-war revenues of $5,000,000,000 a year or less.

The midnight deadline for 1944 income tax payments neared with these developments:

1. Some 30,000,000 persons — those earning below $5,000—were relieved of the annual siege of "digit jitters" by the 1944 simplification act. But long lines still sought help at internal revenue bureau offices across the country, giving vent to demands for still more simplification.

2. Pleas were heard for easements in tax burdens, but there was no immediate prospect for a reduction in record high levies. Congress does not intend to write a new revenue bill this year but has its tax staff at work on a postwar tax program.

Rep. Carlson (R-Kans) author of the pay-as-you-go bill which established the current withholding system against wages and salaries, said today further adjustments are needed to simplify returns for persons earning more than $5,000.

He told a reporter he is studying the advisability of a graduated withholding levy designed to take virtually the entire tax of persons making up to $10,000 a year

Aerial Warfare on Reich Intensified; 11-Ton Bombs Used

Over 1,350 American Planes Carry Into Thirty-first Day

London, March 15(AP)—A fleet of 1,350 American bombers attacked the outskirts of Berlin, including the huge freight yards at Oranienburg, today following the first use by the RAF of a new 11-ton volcano bomb.

Oranienburg, seven miles north of Berlin, is virtually a suburb of the battered nazi capital which has been bombed on 23 successive nights by RAF Mosquitos.

The first use of the new 11-ton bomb by the RAF yesterday was credited with knocking out the important Berlin-Ruhr railway viaduct at Bielefeld, 80 miles east of the Rhine.

Oranienburg, attacked on the 31st day of the allies' sustained railways to the Baltic coast where aerial offensive, is on the main highway and one of the two main Russian armies are operating against Stettin, and on the Have river, which connects with a large freight canal.

An air force spokesman said recent reconnaissance showed the Oranienburg yards were extremely active.

British bombers were in action during the night, heavies striking at the western front supply centers of Zweibrucken and Homburg, while Mosquitos rocked Berlin.

Over 5,000 Planes in Action

More than 5,000 British and American planes participated in the operations yesterday during which the new RAF super-bombs were introduced in the attack on Bielefeld.

The air ministry announced that six to eight spans of the viaduct had been destroyed. Simultaneously RAF Lancasters attacked another viaduct at Arnsburg, 27 miles southeast of Dortmund, with six-ton "earthquake" bombs.

The viaducts were parallel viaducts at Bielefeld, each carrying two railway tracks, but one previously had been knocked out by six-ton earthquake bambs.

The huge 22,000-pounders, heavier by five tons than the streamlined type which sank the German battleship Tirpitz and penetrated 15-foot concrete walls of submarine shelters on the French coast, exploded with a terrific concussion that whipped back violently against the launching planes.

60 Nazi Planes Destroyed

Meanwhile, fighter bombers of the Ninth Air Force, protecting the Remagen bridgehead Wednesday, destroyed 60 German planes sitting on an airfield east of Coblenz, and damaged 55 others. Three fighter bombers were lost.

The nazi aircraft were believed preparing for a mass assault on the bridgehead when the Americans struck.

More than 1,250 heavy bombers and 650 fighters of the Eighth dropped 3,500 tons of explosives on factories and oil refineries at Hannover, U-boat pens at Ijmuiden on the Dutch coast, railyards on the main routes northeast of the Ruhr and the Weser river rail bridges at Vlotho and Bad Oeyenhausem.

Running into violent flak at several targets the Americans lost 12 bombers and seven fighters.

Italy based Liberators and Flying Fortresses on the U. S. 15th Air Force again went to the support of the Red army, attacking oil refineries and vital communications north of Budapest and within 35 miles of the advancing Russians.

23 Meet Death in 2 Plane Crashes

San Carlos, Calif., March 15—(AP)—The crash of a big transport plane on a storm-lashed hillside killed seven men and injured 16 others, the Navy said today.

The accident occurred last night a few miles southwest of here.

The plane carried 23 persons, headquarters said, all Navy and Marine personnel. No names were made public.

After lying in cold rain and mud for from one and a half to three hours before rescuers could reach them, 13 of the injured were taken to nearby hospitals.

Washington, March 15—(AP)—Sixteen persons, including seven USO entertainers, perished in the crash of an Army transport plane in Europe on March 3, the war department announced today.

The plane was flying from England to Paris at the time of the accident.

The European division of the Air Transport Command reported that the accident marred a safety record of five million miles of flying by that division during which there was no loss of life in a plane accident.

Winston Churchill Holds Hope for Peace This Spring

London, March 15.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill held out hope today of victory over Germany this spring, pledged his dominant Conservative party to promotion of free enterprise in the postwar period, and served notice that he intended to guide Britain in the trials of peace.

"Victory lies before us, certain and perhaps near," he told the Conservative party conference. He said the war in Europe might conclude "before the summer ends or even sooner," and declared:

"The continuous and ever more rapid progress of the war against Germany and the nazi tyranny leads us all to hope that the giant foe against whom for more than a year we stood alone, unflinching and undismayed, will be forced into unconditional surrender or beaten to the ground in chaos or ruin."

The 2,000 delegates gave their leader a tumultuous ovation as he concluded his 45-minute address.

He cautioned the Conservative party against "humbug and blandishment" and against bidding for votes and party popularity "by promising what we cannot perform."

"It would be very easy for us all to promise or even to give each other presents, bonuses and gratuities in the most enthusiastic manner but if we woke up in the morning and found that the pound sterling ($4) bought only five shillings ($1) worth of goods or services we should have committed the crime of cheating the soldiers and workers of the country."

Temper Obviously Taut

His temper obviously taut after recent sharp exchanges with left-wing critics in Commons, the prime minister struck out at "our socialist friends" and their program for "nationalizing all the means of production, distribution and exchange."

He asserted that would imply "not only the destruction of the life of the whole of our existing system of society and life and labor, but the creation and enforcement of another system or systems borrowed from foreign lands, and alien minds."

By contrast, he declared that "at the head of our mainfast we fly the flag of free enterprise."

"We are determined," he said, "that the native genius and spirit of adventure, of risk taking in peace as in war shall bear our fortunes forward in profitable work

Here's One Ceiling That Goes Up; It's Our National Debt

Washington, March 15—(AP)—The senate finance committee today approved legislation raising the national debt limit to $300,000,000,000. Treasury Undersecretary Daniel W. Bell said it would have to be boosted again within a year.

The present statutory limit is $260,000,000,000. The house already has approved the higher figure.

Bell told the committee the debt stood at $235,000,000,000 Feb. 28. He estimated it would mount to $251,800,000,000 by June 30, end of the current fiscal year.

He said the increase is urgently needed in view of the forthcoming Seventh War Loan, by means of which the government hopes to raise another $11,000,000,000.

Silence Prevails Along Red Army's Oder River Front

Russian Springboard Positions Improved on Crucial Front

Moscow, March 15— (AP) — Sporadic Russian attacks from the mouth of the Oder to the vicinity of Frankfurt improved Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian army springboard positions today for a new offensive as operational silence prevailed along the crucial Berlin front.

(There were persistent German reports that the Russians have thrust across the Oder in force, between captured Kuestrin and Frankfurt, but they have not been confirmed by Moscow.)

While the Red army's top-ranking field commander was setting the stage for a huge assault against the nazi Oder river line, other Russian troops scored additional gains in sectors as far removed as southwestern Slovakia and East Prussia.

The Slovak campaign was revived by the Second Ukraine army's capture of Vzolen, heavily fortified German base on the upper Hron river. This carried the fight almost to the outskirst of Banska Bystrica, headquarters of last year's gallant Slovakian uprising, 10 miles north of Zvolen.

Russians Make Progress

The wooded, rugged terrain still was fiercely defended by the Germans, who were anxious to keep the northern anchorage of their Danubian front from being torn out, but Russian troops made steady progress.

The Third White Russian army, closing in on Koenigsberg, set the Germans' coastal corridor southwest of the East Prussian capital blazing again under a heavy ground assault supported by swarming Red bombers. The soviet troops struck at Koenigsberg and Braunsberg at both ends of the

Veterans Affairs Board Is Planned

Springfield, Ill., March 15—(AP)—Governor Green plans to offer legislation next week for creation of a permanent state commission to handle war veterans affairs in Illinois.

The governor told a news conference late yesterday he had decided on a commission, instead of a new code department as previously considered, after consulting with American Legion and other servicemen groups.

The commission will consist of three or five members to coordinate activities on veterans employment and rehabilitation.

After two days of legislative scrutiny, Chicago traction legislajor changes proposed to the Kelly-tion emerged today with few ma-Green plan for improving and consolidating metropolitan transportation.

Both Democratic Mayor Edward J. Kelly and Republican Governor Green agreed to several revisions to satisfy some critics of the program.

One change would prohibit the proposed metropolitan transit authority from acquiring facilities within a suburb unless voters approved. About 85 outlying towns are affected by the legislation.

Other agreed amendments call for competitive bidding on $87,000,000 in securities which will finance a unified system, and for establishment of a fare sufficient to meet all costs of operation.

24-Cent Weekly Meat Allowance in Britain Faces New Reduction

London, March 15.—(AP)—Britons, who can buy only 24 cents worth of meat aplece each week under the present rationing system, faced the prospect today of receiving even less in the near future.

The food situation now is as serious as it has been at any time during the war—with the possible exception of the days when the submarine menace was greatest—and a Washington announcement that the United States will send less meat to Britain is causing deep concern among housewives.

One reason behind the food shortage here is the severe drought in Australia and New Zealand, where enormous orders had been placed for supplies in 1945.

Green First State Executive at Meet

Champaign, March 15.—(AP)—Governor Green and his two teen age daughters were in the stands as the state high school basketball tournament began today.

The girls, Nancy and Gloria, staunch rooters for Springfield high, said they were insisting that their father stick it out through all eight games until late tonight before returning to Springfield.

The governor professed technical neutrality as to title favorites and said he'd wait until he'd seen all 16 teams.

Douglas Mills, University of Illinois basketball coach, said Green was the first governor ever to attend a tournament at Champaign.

"Beautiful"

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Headquarters, Luzon, March 15 — (AP) — A 27-year-old former Idaho potato farmer who had never killed a Japanese in five years Army service hit the jackpot in the first crack at the Nipponese.

This is his record:

He polished off 26 in five mintes with a flamethrower, clubbed another to death with an empty weapon, picked off a straggler with a grenade and finished his day's activities by cutting the 29th in two with a tommygun.

He's Sgt. Clifford G. Harmon of Hagerman, Idaho.

His regimental commander who witnessed the flamethrower feat said "it was the most beautiful job I have ever seen".

First Army Cuts Across Super-Road

Germans Say American Force at Remagen Now 100,000

Paris, March 15—(AP)—The Germans declared tonight that the new 15th Army had gone into action in the east Rhine bridgehead and the Remagen assault force, numbered by the Germans at 100,000, had started troops across the Ruhr-Frankfurt superhighway.

The enemy reported also that the Germans had "smashed an American Ninth Army attempt to cross the lower Rhine north of Duisburg, wiping out part of the force in fierce hand to hand fighting and driving the remainder back across the river."

Last allied frontline dispatches, filed at 9:30 a. m., battlefront time, said the First Army was within a half mile of the six-lane military highway in the thickly wooded hills northeast of Honnef, northern anchor of the bridgehead. The Americans were sweeping the road with machine-gun fire at the time, and to all intents, virtually had cut the route. The only mention of the 15th Army came from the foe.

Fighting in Houvel

The Germans reported fierce fighting in the village of Houvel, 3½ miles northeast of Honnef, in the area where the autobahn was severed—embarrassing nazi communications for both the Rhineland and the imperilled and outflanked Saar.

A German war reporter, reporting in a dispatch "from Field Marshal Von Runstedt's headquarters," said the Ninth Army unit which crossed the Rhine near its greatest port of Duisburg "was to be the spearhead for stronger forces to follow." The Ninth Army pulled up to the Rhine March 2 after overrunning the western end of the great Ruhr industrial basin.

"The force was immediately engaged after reaching the right bank of the Rhine by determined resistance," the enemy reported.

"Fierce fighting, sometimes hand to hand, developed. It is assumed that only a small part of the American forces will reach the left bank of the Rhine again. The Americans left many dead and prisoners."

Foe Reports Smoke Screen

The enemy had been reporting smoke screens shielding intense activity on the lower Rhine front all week. The British war secretary said earlier this week "our forces" are preparing for a large scale crossing of the Rhine."

Army Will Get Most Inductees Under 21

Washington, March 15—(AP)—The Army's growing need for young infantrymen to replace combat losses will take practically all inductees under 21 for the next three months.

Beginning today, the Army and Navy announced jointly, the only exception to Army assignments for men drafted in that age bracket, will be the comparative few who qualify for such specialized naval programs as radio technicians and combat aircrewmen.

Routine manpower needs of the Navy will be met from the 21-to-38 age brackets during the three-month period of the agreement.

Last night's announcement made no mention of, and presumably does not affect, the Navy's policy of enlisting 17-year-olds.

First of Americans Liberated by Russian Army Enroute to U. S.

Cairo, March 15—(AP)—Arrival at a Middle East port of a "first contingent" of more than 1,000 United States soldiers freed from German prison camps by the Russian offensive was announced today by American headquarters in Cairo.

A statement said the troops would be refitted, given medical attention, and examined so that they "may continue their journey as expeditiously as possible."

Two other ship loads of rescued allied prisoners reached the port earlier in the week.

America's 50,000,000 Taxpayers Are Today Tossing in Last of 1944 Taxes

Washington, March 15—(AP)—Army ground force casualties on the western front from D-Day last June to March 1 total 125,007, Secretary of War Stimson reported today.

Of that figure, he said, 31,168 represented casualties during the month of February. He noted that the February losses were substantially lower than in January when 61,962 casualties were reported. In December the losses amounted to 71,785.

Stimson gave the western front tallies in reporting that army casualties in all theaters reached 748,457 on the basis of individual names compiled in Washington through March 7.

Added to Navy losses of 91,132, this placed aggregate casualties since Pearl Harbor at 839,589, an increase of 15,957 over last week's report.

The secretary said that in February on the western front 1,115 were killed, 26,436 wounded and 3,887 reported missing.

From D-Day to March 1, the break-down for the western front showed 70,111 killed, 975,547 wounded and 57,016 missing.

The classification of Army casualties in all theaters since Pearl Harbor and corresponding figures for the previous week follow:

Killed 115,738 and 112,285; wounded 150,766 and 438,731; missing 89,656 and 91,237, and prisoners 62,302 and 60,666. Of the wounded, 228,502, or more than half, have returned to duty.

Similar figures for the Navy:

Killed 31,938 and 31,513; wounded 41,113 and 41,209, missing 10,183, and 10,671, and prisoners 1,268 and 4,317.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

The Byrnes super-committee on food exports was appointed to draw a shin-plaster over the mess which various government agancies have made of the foreign food supply programs.

The deft Byrnes is taking hold of the loose-running, open-hearted, benevolent-handed food dispensing bureaus in an effort to effect some equity between civilian needs here and further shipments to Europe.

Behind the move lay trustworthy reports of high accumulations of food supplies in Britain and some other places abroad (no one seems to know where) while a somewhat desperate shortage exists in Greece and our occupied part of Italy (where published news reports say food is scarcer than in the nazi-held part.)

This puzzling condition has been accentuated by simultaneous prospects that our own domestic food supplies are going to become tighter and tighter for the housewife until fall at least.

Furthermore we are entering planting season with the most difficult production outlook since the war started, with help shorter and implements scarcer than in the previous war years

The move was absolutely necessary—and overdue.

A foremost business man, just back from Europe, is my authority for reporting an overaccumulation of food in Britain. For one example, he learned in London from business sources of four Argentine ships, loaded with beef, refused entry and required to cruise around in the waters offshore because storehouses were filled and docking facilities limited by other supply ships unloading.

In Italy and Greece he was informed that the Russian party (the local people there no longer use the word communist, but call Stalin's devotees "the Russian partisans") had offered importations of food for political considerations. Where the Russians could get food for export he did not learn. He found the Italians nevertheless generally favoring the American occupation, despite the shortages of fuel and clothing as well as food.

Beyond this report, the nazis have flooded Holland with salt water. Southern Italian fields have not been cleared of mines and shrapnel and cannot be fully planted. Clearly Europe cannot grow enough this year. The problem of feeding Germany is coming up.

Now while no European seems to be getting food (Greece being in the same boat as Italy and France nearby) the Army, lend-lease, the Lehman outfit and the Commodity Credit Corporation have been buying and sending billions of dollars of foodstuffs abroad according to their announced figures.

The question, "Where is it?" is not the only one raised by these facts (the dependability of their source raises them above the category of unauthoritative reports), but the condition also seems to inquire if Britain and Russia have stored or intend to use our lend-lease food for the purpose of building influence and prestige on the conquered continent. If so, our lend-lease commitments could well be whittled down.

The Byrnes announcement made it quite clear we cannot be too easy hereafter with our supplies. Shortages of meat, butter, lard and canned fruits and vegetables will continue to tighten for an indefinite period. Why?

Well, a year or two back, the government still feared overabundance, and grossly miscalculated all along the food line. Even last year the production of hogs was arbitrarily cut, also poultry. Spring production of hogs was reduced 29 per cent.

Likewise, too much labor was taken from the farms, too little machinery allocations were made.

We would not be even where we are had not we been provided with unprecedentedly good weather the past two years. Can we get three years of weather like that in a row?

The only indication so far is good. Winter snow has piled high throughout the agricultural belt and promises good subsurface moisture. Also winter wheat is bountiful.

But the condition is enough to alarm the whole inner circle. Certainly it should discourage continuance of the free-distribution on a "what-do-you-want" rather "we-will-see-what-we-have" basis for Europe.

An end of the continental war might allow release of some men for harvesting and perhaps might ease lend-lease demands, but we will have to take on a third of Germany, at least, and certainly the end will not solve the situation for this year.

The job of feeding the world seems to have proved too great even for us—at least in the free and easy way we tried to do it.

Awards to Best Movie Stars to be Announced

Hollywood, March 15.—(AP)—Hollywood's own sense of the dramatic will dominate the seventeenth annual awards by the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences in the Chinese theatre tonight.

Results of the voting, completed some days ago, and hidden in a bank vault by the national accounting concern, represent the opinion of 9,000 people within the industry as to who is best in the various fields.

Bing Crosby and Barry Fitzgerald are providing the main drama in the contest for best male performance, both for their work in "Going My Way." Fitzgerald is also up for the supporting player award. Other contenders are Cary Grant for "None But the Lonely Heart," Alexander Knox for "Wilson" and Charles Boyer for "Gaslight."

Competition among the women is keenest between Ingrid Bergman for "Gaslight," and Barbara Stanwyck for "Double Indemnity." Claudette Colbert has been nominated for "Since You Went Away," Greer Garson for "Mrs. Parkington," and Bette Davis for "Mr. Skeffington."

Fair Enough

by

WESTBROOK PEGLER

(Copyright, 1945, by King Features Syndicate.)

In writing some time ago of the use of radio by a Russian-born war contractor to harrangue the Americans with propaganda consistent with the communist line, I made the mistake of declaring that our standard American press would not sell advertising space for editorial matter. It was a carless observation and incorrect because, periodically, since 1939, the International Latex Company of Playtex Park, Dover, Del., has been running political arguments as paid advertisements. These have been new deal preachments, and anti-nazi but, as far as my reading of them reveals, never anti-communist, nor hostile to totalitarianism, as such.

The company which took to the air with the party line propaganda over a local station of the Blue Network in New York was Electronic Corporation of America. As related before in these dispatches, its news "interpreter" is a renegade rabbi, born Margolis, who changed his name to Gailmor to conceal his identity as a convicted thief, and deceived the Blue Network regarding his true personality and police record in the interview which preceded his engagement. After the expose, he was invited to the White House along with many others of like mind and purposes for the inauguration festivities.

The president of Electronics is a native Russian, naturalized American, named Samuel Novick who manufactures secret electrical equipment for the Army and also has interests in a company of similar activities in Mexico, the center of the communist conspiracy in Latin America. Novick hired for his press agent in New York a prominent and aggressive communist who, like Gailmor, also uses an alias. Novick, moreover, is associated with a group of conspicuous communists and fellow-travelers in a new corporation which is preparing a strong campaign by radio voice and television to begin immediately after the war.

In Gailmor's propaganda conscious example of pro-communist bias were denunciations of Great Britain for resisting the communist coup in Greece after the liberation and laudations of the Quisling Polish government set up by soviet Russia in Poland under the title of Lublin committee. This matter was presented in the guise of news interpretation and, under ordinary practice, the cost of the program, more than $50,000 a year, would be deductible from the profits of Electronic as legitimate advertising expense, in the preparation of its tax returns. Thus, in final effect, the American people, the actual tax-payers, would bear the cost of their own indoctrination, subtly administered as explanation of news developments. Even though it were not deducted but paid out of the company's own profits, they would still pay for it because, after all, it is the tax-payers who pay the profits, too. A communist organization having the form of an American business corporation might desire profits only to be able to use them to promote the cause of communism.

There are points of similiarity between Novick of Electronic and the president of International Latex, whose name is Abraham N. Spanel. Like Novick, Spanel was born in Russia and, like Novick, he is diligently engaged in war production and would appear to have prospered enormously. His advertisements run two or three columns wide, the length of the page, in a national list of newspapers, a campaign suggesting a huge appropriation for political propaganda, and he is a rapturous advocate of Henry Wallace as an American political prophet. To this end he has published at advertising rates on a national scale several eulogies of Wallace, ostensibly as "a public service", including one by the ineffable Senator Joe Guffey, of Pennsylvania, the artful tax dodger, who for many years owed the treasury an item of $1,000 and, finally, after much publicity, persuaded himself to pay it, without the usual impost of accrued interest.

"No wonder the forward looking people of the United States and the common people of the world believe in Mr. Wallace", said Senator Guffey in one of Spanel's ads, neglicting, however, to mention Wallace's disparagement of the American constitutional Bill of Rights or his plan to build a highway, whether of eight lanes or one, and whether of concrete or platinum, from New York to Paris by way of Alaska and Siberia.

Another of Spanel's rhapsodies was a reprint of a column by a member of the Roosevelt newspaper folowing in Washington, which described Wallace as a champion and symbol of the "aspirations of the common man and the under dog". This was a poetic construction well expressing the attitude of some demagogues of the extreme left who regard the American citizens as a souless lump to be fed, quartered, ordered and disciplined even as a dog. A native of Russia and an admirer of the soviet system might be pardoned in the error.

Collier's recently published a laudatory personal history of Mr. Spanel, praising him for his invention and manufacture of pneumatic boats for jungle warfare and a pneumatic stretcher for the recovery of casualties and for his foresight in laying up, before Pearl Harbor, a reserve supply of liquid latex, or pure rubber. He formerly had manufactured girdles for women and baby pants. Collier's tells us that like Gailmor, Spanel studied for the clergy.

He is said to have returned voluntarily $1,500,000 of his profits to the treasury but we are not told whether he might have had to do this anyway, as many manufacturers must, under the renegotiation process. A war contractor thus could make patriotic virture of legal necessity.

We do know, however, that the advertising matter is entirely political and ideological, with no mention of any commercial product, and that it represents a lavish outlay of money by a coroporation for political propaganda in the guise of public service, financed by an immigrant from Russia, who seems to admire Russia as a trustworthy national comrade of the United States, without reference to the record of Russia's past performances or examination of the communist system.

KONSTANCJA

JOZEF ELSNER wrote:

"—Frederic's heart and mine bleed for the trouble at home. It has upset us more than we can say. Frederic longs to go back, if he could but stand the strain of the journey—"

The door opened.

"Professor!"

It was the voice of Monsieur Jollet, his landlord. Jozef Elsner did not look up from his writing. He did not want to be annoyed. "If you don't mind, Monsieur—"

Monsieur Jollet was not alone. In the doorway was a woman and when Jozef Elsner raised his eyes and saw that it was Mlle. Konstancja Gladkowska his pen dropped from his hand.

"—I brought you this lady," Monsieur Jollet said; "and I brought you this letter, too," he said, handing Jozef Elsner an envelope.

"Yes, thank you. Thank you. But you, my dear," Jozef Elsner said staring at Mlle. Gladkowska. "You, my dear—tch, tch—"

Monsieur Jollet closed the door.

"—Let me look at you! In Paris—eh? When did you leave home? Did you run away?"

The result of the long trip from Poland was apparent in the appearance of her clothes and in the strained look on her face. She was an older woman by many years than when Jozef Elsner had last seen her. Yet there was still a shining beauty in her features and in her figure also. But it was a hard beauty.

SHE shook her head. She said no, she didn't run away. She was in Paris because she had been sent to Paris. She had gone to Pleyel et Cie and they had told her where to find him. She had asked for Frederic. There was a harshness in her tone when she said his name. They would tell her nothing. They said everybody wanted Frederic and they were not permitted to say anything about his whereabouts.

"—Eh?" Then Jozef Elsner added: "Naturally. He is very famous, Mademoiselle—"

"I knew I wouldn't find him with you."

"—You knew that. Eh?"

"Your letters may have fooled Madame and Monsieur Chopin. They have not fooled me. Not one letter from Frederic!"

"—He's been very busy—very busy. You have no idea!" Jozef Elsner paced the room. He opened the envelope he had been holding in his hand. He glanced at it. He waved it aside.

"Where is Frederic?"

"—A good question. He's at Nohant—and in very good hands, too. Madame Sand is a very gracious hostess—"

"Does he know what is happening at home! Does he ever think of it!"

"—Think of it! Tch, tch—he thinks of nothing else!" Jozef Elsner tried hard to be convincing.

"I was sent to Paris on the bare chance—on the bare hope—that he hasn't entirely forgotten."

Then in a quiet voice Mlle. Gladkowska told Jozef Elsner what had been happening in Poland. She said that hundreds of patriots had been jailed and that hundreds had been murdered—some clubbed to death, some hanged, others slashed with sabers. But resistance was not dead.

"There are only a few leaders left," she said. "Those who are not dead are imprisoned." Yet there was still hope, because it was still possible to bribe the jailers They willingly take money.

She said: "If anything in the past—just a small spark—is still alive in Frederic—"

Jozef Elsner threw out his hands. "Don't you suppose if he could—!" He tried hard not to bluster. "Money! Do you think he has it? Enough to live, that's all! The sale of his music brings very little—certainly not enough.

"Let me tell you where money is made: concerts! Yes, that's true. But concerts for Frederic are out of the question! What would you have him do? Eh? Concerts! No, Mademoiselle, they are not to be thought of—he is too ill for concerts—"

Mlle. Gladkowska was unimpressed. "I would have him beg, if need be. Beg—or steal. Just as we do. We have no shame—no pride. Let him use his reputation for the cause of Poland. Let him go to his friends—the great people of France—and beg them for help—for the money that they can give. Yes, on his hands and knees—without shame or pride—!"

She spoke the truth and Jozef Elsner knew it.

"DO you ever see him?"

Jozef Elsner fumbled with the letter in his hand. His eyes now fastened on it. "—Humph." He looked at the letter again, then once more. And now, with a look of triumph, he handed the letter to Mlle. Gladkowska. "Do I ever see him? An amazing question!"

As Mlle. Gladkowska read the letter, obviously unimpressed, Jozef Elsner continued to talk. "I see him constantly! Yes, constantly! Do you doubt it now—Eh? Tonight in the salon of the Duchess of Orleans—Oh, I have been there before, too—Yes, as I wrote you—but you didn't believe it. Tonight Frederic will play and I am asked to attend. Naturally."

"This letter is not from Frederic."

"—Humph."

"It is from Franz Liszt." Mlle. Gladkowska was puzzled.

"—Of course. Franz Liszt! Frederic's friend—my friend."

"And you are going tonight, Professor?"

Jozef Elsner paused in his walk about the room. Was he going? Who would keep him away?"

"When you see him, Professor, will you give him this?"

Mlle. Gladkowska took from her bag a small package tied with string.

"—It is important, Professor. Very important."

SOCIETY

Mrs. Stephan Is Practical Club Hostess Tuesday

Nineteen members of the Practical club enjoyed a 1 o'clock scramble luncheon Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Harry Stephan with Mrs. Clinton Rhodes assisting. The small luncheon tables were decorated with snapdragons and sweetpeas.

Following luncheon, Mrs. Clark Richard read a poem, "Kindred Souls," by Julia Reese Osburn. Mrs. Frank Wilson gave an item of interest on how Stateville convicts work to help the nation at war.

Four hunderd men have repaired garments from all branches of the service, such as socks underwear, shirts, pants, coats and windbreakers. To date over 700,000 articles have been made usuable again. Blankets by the carload are being turned out in the textile factory at Joliet's old prison. When the Red Cross mobile unit for blood donations went to Stateville, three thousand men offered blood, but only one thousand pints were donated.

The convicts there have also purchased 50,000 worth of war bonds and donated $500 to fight infantile paralysis. The warden, J. E. Ragen, says his men will do more when they are called upon.

Another item of interest, "The Travel Lure of a Sixty-Hour World," by Dean Clark, was given by Mrs. A. E. Marth.

"The most important factor in the prospective postwar travel stampede is of course the airplane," Mrs. Marth said. The planes now spanning the Atlantic in routine flights at the average rate of one every 20 minutes, proves that a postwar "commuter service" by air to all countries is practicable. Complete round the world trips by tourist plane can be an early actuality in the new super-airships, which will compress the whole world into 60 hours of flying time.

A letter was read by Mrs. Vernon Mays from Mrs. D. G. Palmer, a club member, who is visiting in California. Mrs. Palmer described many of the interesting places she has been while visiting there. Mrs. C. Powell conducted a quiz with Mrs. Marth winning the sixty-four dollar question. The club will meet in two weeks.

Mrs. F. Blewfield Gives Book Review for Young Mothers

Mrs. Robert Brewster was hostess to 26 members and guests of the Young Mothers' club last evening in her home on West Third street.

Mrs. Floyd L. Blewfield entertained the group with an excellent review of the book, "Sounding Trumpets," by Louise Hall Tharp, based on the life of Julia Ward Howe.

Mrs. Blewfield appeared in historical costume and her thoughtful interpretation of the various characters she portrayed, combined with her ability to stress the events of Mrs. Howe's life most interesting to the group, made her review one of the most entertaining programs presented before the club this season.

During the business session preceding the program, the Young Mothers voted to give a donation to the American Red Cross during the current campaign for funds. Plans were also made by the club for its annual musical to be held in April.

Mrs. Elwood Rickard, club health reporter, read a paper on tuberculosis and the modern means of detecting its symptoms through tuberculin tests and chest X-ray. She told of the effort being made to check the spreading of the disease among children through recently developed preventive measures.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Edward Lawton, chairman of the hostess committee, and her assistants, Mrs. Archie Brown, Mrs. George Fries and Mrs. Wallace Elifson.

The Young Mothers will hold their next meeting at the home of Mrs. Frederick Lawton on March 28. Mrs. Ralph Cox will serve as the hostess chairman for the meeting. Mrs. Charles F. Johnston Jr., will appear on the program and has chosen for her topic, "Nursery Stories and Their Value to Children."

Girl Scout Summer Camp Is Discussed

Girl Scout council met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. George Lindquist. During the last month several vacancies have occurred in the leaders' ranks and leaders for troops are badly needed. Any volunteers will be appreciated for troops from the Loveland, Lincoln and South Central schools.

It was decided at the meeting that the services of a professional trainer for troop leaders will be acquired next September. This trainer will instruct troop leaders before Scout activities begin next fall.

A beautiful afghan, which was made by the Girl Scout troop of South Central school for the Red Cross, was on display at this meeting.

Further plans for Girl Scout camp this summer were discussed, the dates and details to be announced later.

Four interesting and informative window displays have been arranged in the Ryan Dress shop, Vandenberg Paint Store, Marilyn shop and Eichlers, to honor the 33rd birthday anniversary of the Girl Scouts, which is being celebrated this week throughout the nation.

Wesleyan Society Arranges Program, Scramble Supper

About 70 members and friends of the Wesleyan society gathered at the Methodist church on Tuesday evening for their March meeting. A scramble supper was enjoyed at 6:30 o'clock at tables decorated in green and white in honor of St. Patrick's day. While seated at the tables a number of Irish songs were sung, led by Ben Schildberg with Frank Fordham at the piano. A short business session was then held with the president, Mrs. Helen Moeller, in charge.

The evening program was opened with a hymn and Mrs. Louis Meppin had charge of the devotions on the subject "Faith." An American flag was presented to the Wesleyan society for use in the church by Mrs. Frank Ware, who led in the pledge to the flag which was accepted by the president. The program was then turned over to Mrs. Henry Leydig, who was chairman for the evening.

She introduced Glenn Spute, who gave an interesting chalk talk after which Prof. and Mrs. L. W. Miller showed a group of pictures with their projection machine which had been assembled by Mrs. Leydig, from views of France sent by her son, Lt. Layrence Leydig, and English views contributed by Mrs. Hettie Dawson. Mrs. Leydig explained and commented on these views which were both beautiful and instructive.

The committee in charge of the program consisted of Mrs. Henry Leydig, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Meppin, Mr. and Mrs. Clingman and Mr. and Mrs. Bradford.

First Break Comes in Hollywood Strike

Hollywood, March 15.—(AP)—The first break developed today in the ranks of Hollywood's AFL jurisdictional movie strike as the Film Technicians local 683, voted to return to work, regardless of pickets.

The film technicians represent 900 of the 17,000 studio workers on strike. By a majority vote the technicians upheld the stand of their leaders who declared that the strike was "a wildcat walkout having nothing to do with wages, hours or any logical union cause."

The first of the returning technicians started work this morning to develop the backlog of exposed film shot during the first three days of the strike.

Otherwise, opposing sides stood pat on their demands, studio production dragged and it appeared that some government agency might have to step in and effect an armistice.

Special Engineer Methods Needed to Build Rhine Bridge

With the U. S. First Army on the Rhine, March 15.—(AP)—Throwing up a bridge like circus roustabouts do a tent, the 51st Combat Engineer Battalion under Lt. Col. Harvey R. Fraser of Elizabeth, Ill., spanned the Rhine in just 31 hours with what they believe is the longest pontoon bridge built in this war.

The speed of the river current which displaced all available anchors called for special engineering measures in construction of the 960-foot span.

Boats pushing against the current kept the pontoons from floating downstream and afforded time for provision for more permanent anchors.

Macassar, Celebes Island, was the prewar clearinghouse for the trade of the eastern half of the Netherlands East Indies.

From investigations of caves, refuse dumps and lake dwellings, it is known that Europeans of the New Stone Age possessed dogs.

First Army Cuts

Third Army crossed the lower Moselle on a nine-mile front within eight miles of besieged Coblenz and won domination of another ten mile strip of the west Rhine banks from positions less than three miles from the ancient walled Rhine town of Boppard.

Still farther south, four waves of American medium bombers ripped up dragon's teeth barriers and pillboxes of the Siegfried Line on the Saar front where fresh advances of the U. S. Seventh Army carried almost to the edges of the steel producing cities of Voelklingen and Saarbruecken.

The bombing with special fused, non-crater-digging explosives, was the kind used to prelude other allied offensives in the past. Lt. Gen George S. Patton's Third Army moving south of the middle Moselle 12 miles southeast of Saarburg was within 24 miles of Saarbrucken from the north and threatening to roll up the Siegfried Line along the Saar river from the rear.

Report Highway Cut

The Brussels radio reported the superhighway, a six lane concrete strip which Hitler built for his armies in the Rhineland and Saar district, had been cut northeast of Honnef at the northern end of the slowly expanding Rhine footing.

The Germans said "some ten divisions," of between 100,000 and 140,000 Americans had been thrown into the bridgehead. The report added:

"Gen. Eisenhower has thrown the new American 15th Army into this battle."

The 15th, announced only last week, is commanded by Lt. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, a Virginian with a flair for speed. His men are mostly of new, as yet unannounced divisions, seasoned with some veterans wearing the Purple Heart.

Battle in Eighth Day

The bridgehead battle was in its eighth day and still was shrouded for the most part by a security blackout. Emphasis was on building up overpowering assault forces and making sure that no German counter-attack could dislodge the conquerors. The positions a half mile from the superhighways was reported many hours ago—at 9:30 a. m. battlefront time.

Clear skies and preliminary reports of sorties indicated the whole western Reich was in for one of its worst days of aerial attacks of the year.

First Army infantrymen edging into the heavily wooded hills east of the expanding Remagen bridgehead were within a half mile of the super-highway at 9:35 a. m.

Infantry advanced to Bruenesberg, five and a half miles east of the Rhine and nine and a half southeast of the super-highway junction city of Sieburg. Other First Army assault forces pushed north of Honnef and still others were fighting in Notscheid, six miles east of the Rhine and seven southeast of Honnef.

The Germans were building up their strength due east of Remagen and made the wholly unconfirmed assertion that their bombers had destroyed the Ludendorff bridge and nearby pontoon bridge supplying upwards of 70,000 foot and tanks troops the enemy said were in the 50 or more square miles of the German heartland.

Third Bridges Moselle

The Third Army bridged the wide Moselle southwest of Coblenz and deepened their east bank foothold to three miles. The crossing was made yesterday against light resistance of the German Seventh Army, which had lost more than 64,000 prisoners to Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's army since Jan. 30.

The Moselle crossings extended from eight to 17 miles southwest of Coblenz, American occupation headquarters in the last war and a major traffic center on the middle Rhine. Other Third Army troops have been at the outskirts of Coblenz but across the Moselle for five days.

Farther south, the resurgent American Seventh Army invaded Germany's Saar district anew and captured at least six towns, including Fursttenhausen, a suburb of Voelklingen where the largest steel mill in the Saar is located. Voelklingen, an industrial city of 31,000, was menaced imminently, as was Saarbruecken, capital of the district and a ruined city of 135,000.

Several Towns Topple

The Seventh Army advanced up to four miles on a seven-mile front west of Saarbruecken, crossing the frontier and reaching the Saar river at several points. Shafthausen, Wehrden, Geislautern, Clarenthal and Shoenecken all toppled.

Skies were clear for a second day, presaging further heavy allied air attacks.

With the Ruhr already smoking as much from bombing and shelling as from production, the heightening question was how much longer its factories and forces could continue to feed steel for German war needs.

The western edge of the Ruhr and its great cities of Cologne, Krefeld and Muenchen Gladbach already were in allied hands. Artillery bombarded the heart of the Ruhr basin for 15 miles east of the Rhine, battering such production centers as the Krupp works at Essen, the vast inland port of Duisburg, Duesseldorf, Muelheim and Oberhausen. Aerial bombs supplemented the shells.

The twisted steel of broken rail lines, the ruins of smashed junctions and the gaping holes in bridges and overpasses in the arc around the whole crisis zone east of the Rhine posed an equally searching question of whether the German army itself could get into the battle of the bridgehead in strength enough to stop its steady expansion.

No Major Counterattack

Beyond Honnef, the First Army was less than 20 miles from the southern edge of the Ruhr and within five miles of rather open country where tanks could rampage.

The Rhine was crossed a week ago today and, despite the arrival of scattered reinforcements, the enemy has not yet been able to mount a major counterattack.

Even aside from the aerial sealoff, however, there was another strong factor in this failure of the Nazi command to heed the lesson of Normandy and throw in an allout effort to smash the bridgehead in its first days.

This was the fear reflected in German accounts of repeated American patrol crossing of the Rhine north of Duisberg, where the 21st Army Group is massed in mighty strength on the lower Rhine banks.

The Germans obviously were hesitating about throwing in their already battered strength against the single bridgehead south of the Ruhr for fear that Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley of the 12th Army Group had made only a feint to pull their thin reserves out of position for subsequent crossings.

Nazi Peace Feeler

was approached by a minor nazi official in the hope of using him as a medium for talking to the allies.

Regarded as Propaganda

Responsible allied officials generally regarded the incident as a carefully planned German propaganda maneuver in an effort to split the allies by causing misunderstandings and suspicions of double dealing.

The Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet, which reported the attempted contact earlier today, said the Germans had urged the allies to begin negotiations for an armistice while Germany was still strong enough to act as a bulwark against the "bolshevik menace".

Svenska Bladget said the attempt failed because the German representatives predicated their bid on the condition that the nazi government should continue in office. The newspaper said the Germans based this condition on the grounds that only Adolf Hitler and Heinrich Himmler had sufficient authority to reconcile the German people to the idea of suing for peace.

The decision to contact the allies, the newspaper asserted, was made at a conference at which Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop headed the peace advocates. Von Ribbentrop was said to have talked with Hitler all night before persuading him it was essential to sue for peace.

The article said the Germans had offered to evacuate all occupied territories now in their possession—which include Norway, Denmark and parts of Holland.

The newspaper said the approach to the allies was made early this month.

The nazi bosses, like Hangman Himmler and unprincipled Goebbels, are utterly ruthless. However, one wouldn't expect them to jettison a first-class commander-in-chief solely because a German lieutenant got drunk and failed to carry out orders to blow up the Remagen bridge. That thought is especially impressive because this is the moment of Germany's greatest need. Competent generals just aren't that plentiful in the Hitlerian camp.

Well, if it wasn't incompetence, what was it? Always bearing in mind that Hitlerdom desperately needs men of Rundstedt's calibre, it strikes me the answer must be that the nazi leaders distrust his loyalty. That is, the Remagen affair is merely a pretext which covers the much graver issue. If this is so, apparently the nazi leaders haven't been able to prove their suspicions, or else the marshal would by now have faced a firing-squad, like numerous other generals who didn't see eye to eye with Hitler—though maybe it's going too far to assume that nothing like that has happened to Rundstedt.

Naturally I'm not suggesting that Rundstedt has been unfaithful to Hitler, for the marshal has served his master well in the matter of generalship. However, I think a justifiable line of reasoning brings us to the conclusion that, if he has been dismissed, Himmler and the other nazi whips do question his loyalty.

Of course, it's quite clear that in these days of the last round, the harrassed Hitlerite chiefs distrust everybody—and with much reason. There is no high officer in the German army who hasn't long known that the Reich has lost the war. We saw the Prussian clique try to get from under last year through the plot against Hitler's life.

For a long time there have been constant disaffections among German officers who declined to lead their men to certain death in the hopeless cause. The western allies have been getting a lot of these fellows who have surrendered. Moscow has collected a choice lot of high generals who not only have thrown the nazi regime over but are trying to persuade their colleagues among the loyal German forces to do likewise.

The German army, like the rest of the German structure, is rotting away.

The barn dance, of American origin, came about because farmers who wished to build a new barn called in their neighbors for a "working" and finished the job by having a dance.

and trade for our people, and that good and thrifty housekeeping, both national and private, shall sustain our economy."

Million Homes Lost

With more than 1,000,000 British homes damaged or destroyed, Churchill said:

"Never was there a time when so much was planned and projected and so much remained to be turned from paper into action. Nothing is more clear than that when the war is over will face an acute shortage of food for several years. It would be madness indeed to cast away the increased food production which has been achieved in the war."

He indicated clearly that he has no intention of stepping down from the driver's seat once Germany is defeated.

"Should it fall to me," said Churchill, "as it may do, to form a government before the general election, I shall seek out not only Conservatives but men of any party or no party who are willing to serve and thus invest our administration with a national character."

This, obviously, was meant to include victory over Japan as well as Germany.

For Churchill, only a few minutes later, declared Britain was obligated to repay injuries inflicted by the Japanese "and the infernal cruelties they have perpetrated upon His Majesty's subjects, British, Australian, Indian, Burmese and Malayan alike.

Pleased Iowa Shriners serenaded Los Angeles with their new song, carrying printed ears of corn. With so many Iowans in California, the Shriners soon had several hundred followers lustily singing of their home state.

Free Rations Move King Neptune; He's After Bond Record

Anna, Ill., March 15—(AP)—King Neptune, royal pig of the Navy, is in the dough—and in his case, that's not pork pie.

Meat scarcity or not, this feted hog must live to sell more war bonds. Subsistence from now on will be backed by his own bank account. No more rooting holes in his sponsor's navy pay.

After knocking down a $17,000,000 war bond sales record, Neptune claimed the attention of southern Illinoisans who wanted to help finance an extension of his patriotic career. They proposed the pig have a bank account of his own and Neptune's sponsor, Chief Petty Officer Don C. Lingle of the Marion, Ill. Navy recruiting office, rejoiced in the prospect of buying a few bonds himself with what he could save on the mascot's feed.

So last week the account was opened here at the Anna National bank. (Teller's note: The hog signs his checks with a rubber stamp of his hoof print).

Appears in Person

After a careful grooming, the hog appeared in person in his robes of Navy blue. A five-pointed crown balanced on his snout as he greeted prominent southern Illinoisans who waited in line to deposit cash to the king's account.

There were doctors and oil executives, a publisher, an auctioneer, a baker, an auto sales manager, an Elks club representative, and many others. They came from Marion, Anna, Centralia, Carterville, Makanda and other points in southern Illinois. A life insurance sales man dropped in from Atlanta, Ga. The manager of the G. S. Suppiger Co., St. Louis, sent $25 with "long Live the King," enscribed on the check.

Cpl. Lingle says much corn and time will be consumed touring bond rallies, where the pig is "sold" over and over again to war bond buyers. Lingle and Neptune want to double the present record; maybe finance a warship.

Asked by reporters at the account opening here if he could do it, Neptune answered "Oink oink." Free rations: let's go."

Cologne—(AP)—Most soldiers hate "K" rations after eating them months on end.

But Pvt. Joseph L. Goebel of Cincinnati, O., never will complain again.

Last October, fighting in a Siegfried line he was hit in the chest by a shell fragment. A surgeon probing for the fragment found pieces of cradboard, cheese and tin. A box of "K" rations in Goebel's pocket had broken its force and saved his life. Now Goebel is back with his unit in the 30th division.

Thirtieth Division patches make bad eating. Ask Pfc. William G. Bryant of Roxboro, N. C. Jumping across the Roer river in a night attack, Bryant found he had a patch in his pocket and, remembering orders that the division was on the secret list, the soldier chewed and swallowed the cloth patch. A few minutes later he learned that just before the jump off the division had been informed it could wear patches.

Nothing stops First Sgt. Joseph Shtumbel of the Bronx, N. Y., once he sets out to rejoin Co. K of the 120th infantry, 30th division, after a leave. Just back from Paris, he found his company had gone into battle and was surrounded. So the sergeant went up front, fought his way through to his outfit and reported to his commanding officer.

The Red Army helped in the capture of Neuss by the 83rd Infantry Division.

Three Russian prisoners in regular Red Army uniforms were being held east of the Rhine and heard Americans approaching the river. They stole rifles, made their way across the river, and joined the attacking 83rd.

"I spit my "K" ration with one of those Russian Joes and he was so tickled he invited me to visit his home near Moscow", said Pfc. Earl J. Anderson of Nantasket Beach, Mass.

Only one of every three persons who obtains a divorce does so outside his or her own community.

No American Dead Are Being Buried on Soil of Reich

All Buried by Ministers of Own Faith in Cemeteries Abroad

By HAL BOYLE

Henri Chapelle, Belgium, March 15—(AP)—Colonel and corporal sleep side by side without rank distinction in this largest military cemetery on the western front where, amid the green rolling hills, row after row of crosses mark the graves of several thousand American dea.

Winter rains have muddied the rich black earth but in time, when the turf has been planted the cemetery—probably the largest ever built for an American overseas army—will be beautiful in its pastoral setting.

No American dead are being buried on German soil. Instead they are being transported 40 to 50 miles from German battlefields to this clean neat countryside some six miles inside Belgium from Aachen, the first large German city taken by the allies.

"So far as I know there are no plans even to have an American cemetery in Germany," said Lt. Nicholas Sloane, New York City, commander of the 607th Graves Registration unit.

Since last Sept. 7, soldiers dead have been arriving in this peaceful pasture land. The recovery of the battle dead is organized so well now that some bodies are brought in with wrist watches still running. They are interred within hours after arrival at the cemetery.

As they arrive, the dead are placed in a portable wooden-floored German barracks with canvas walls. Trained soldiers remove personal effects and prepare the bodies for burial in white cotton mattress covers.

Preferences Listed

Each day one Catholic, one Protestant and one Jewish chaplain is at the cemetery to hold services so that every soldier can be buried by a minister of his own faith. These religious preferences are listed on a soldier's "dog-tags", along with his blood type, name and next of kin.

Lt. Sloane, who is a finger expert, is proud of the fact that all but about 20 of the American dead have been fully identified.

"In the last war, when we didn't have trained personnel, some cemeteries had from 15 to 30 per cent of the dead unidentified", he said.

"About 1,000 of about approximately 9,000 Germans we have buried are unidentified, but that's because other Germans on the battlefield removed their dogtags and paybooks. But we keep a finger print record of those we don't identify. The German dead are buried in exactly the same manner as our own but in a separate part of the cemetery. It is separated by a hedgerow. Afterwards, we shall build a wall between the two".

Three Scribes; Two Women

In addition to the Americans and Germans, 138 allied dead of other nationalities also are bureid here. Among the thousands of American soldiers are three civilian war correspondents and two women. The correspondents are David Lardner, of the New Yorker magazine; Jack Frankish, of the United Press, and Peter Lawless of the London Daily Telegraph, who was killed at the Remagen bridge crossing.

The women are Ann K. Cullen, of the American Red Cross, a victim of a buzz-bomb, and Frances V. Slanger, an army nurse killed by an artillery shell.

"Each of the men buried here is a hero and we have given them all a hero's burial", Sloane said.

Sloane never will forget one lieutenant he buried in Normandy.

"I met him in England and before the invasion he told me jokingly 'Save a box for me, Nick'.

"He laughed and I laughed. I never saw him in France. Then one day at a beach cemetery I recognized him in a group of bodies".

Sloane looked across the Belgian field where hundreds of white crosses gleamed in shiny rows.

"I kept my word", he said. "I found him a box".

Orders

Iwo Jima—(AP)—Late one afternoon Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates complained he wasn't getting enough artillery fire into the Japanese lines on his Fourth Marine Division sector. He issued an order.

The artillery officer directed firing all night by the battery directly behind General Cates' quarters.

It was a sleepy-eyed general who emerged from his shack the next morning.

Had Hot Time

21st Bomber Command Headquarters, Guam, March 15—(AP)—Pilots of the B-29s which swept over Osaka in the pre-dawn incendiary raid all day agreed on their return that they really had one hot time.

Explosions rocked the city and fires spread swiftly despite intense anti-aircraft and searchlight opposition in the later stages of the attack, they said.

Cpl. Richard A. Steelman, a gunner from Alton, Ill., went over before the city defenses awoke and said on his return that it "was the easiest for us of the three incendiary raids. We were the eighth plane over and there were seven or eight fires already."

THE SOLDIER

Mrs. Mabel Clemons,
Franklin Grove, Ill.

Like an empty handed beggar,
His chair still sets in its place.
There is a peculiar silence.
The family bows for grace.

Upon their faces can be seen,
A look of grief, a scar.
There's a picture, there's a book,
A jack knife and a car.

Firelight falls along the wall,
Betraying the worn door sill,
Where boyish feet went in and out
Working and playing at will.

Some time ago a golden sun
Shown upon us in glory
There was no grief or fretting
It was a different story.

It shown upon the golden hair,
A face lit up with joy.
He wasn't a soldier at that time
But just our own dear boy.

One day there stood a soldier tall,
For gallant bravery singled.
A manly look upon his face,
Where joy and sorrow mingled.

Pacing so restless to and fro,
Answering the call of war.
Nervously he clasped the hands
Of loved ones as never before.

We saw him go, for month,
He wrote, I'm feeling swell.
Then the letters didn't come,
We waited a long spell.

A message came one day.
I'm sorry is what it said
To tell you the sad news,
Your soldier boy is dead.

In memory he'll live always
Our boy so filled with joy
Tho our flag waves o'er his grave
Across the sea, Our Boy.

He lived to learn life's hard rule,
How few the whole world thru,
Lament their triumph and your loss
Like home folks who love you.

PRODUCTION LEAD

New York —(AP)— American shipyards produce in six weeks merchantships equalling a year's production in England. This is because England devotes most of her shipbuilding to naval vessels and repair work, and also because America has more shipyards and more streamlined methods.

Despite heavy losses to U-boats, experts say England will end the war with 13.5 million gross tons of merchant shipping, or 4,000,000 less tons than she had to start with in 1939.

The mixed doubles follow the Commercial league at the Recreation, and at last reports they were filled up, but you still may go down and razz your favorites. Florence Schwitters of the Freeman league was the most consistent bowler last night with a four-pin difference in her scores of 114-116-112 . . . No one was anyways near alike in the Classic league, although Paul Potts made a pretty good effort, being over his head in the first two games with 134-134, only to drop to his average, 108 in the last set . . . Bill Keenan had his series the other way around, starting out with his average of 105 and then jumping to 168-168 . . . Joe Miller of the Boynton-Richards five stopped us on the street yesterday afternoon and gave us a preview of what was going to happen last night, according to Joe, the other members of the Boynton-Richard five were tickled pink that Ralph Schroeder won the city championship but they didn't want him to get conceited over it, so the boys made it up that each of them would turn in at least one 200 count last night and make Ralph dog for the team, which is just what they did, even Bill Austin beating him by 13 pins. Ralph was unsuspicious and started out with 123 and when he realized what was up made a gallant effort to come back but his 190-197 wasn't enough . . . After the large sale of the last issue of the Green River News when Cheryl Hahn came up with a new high of 515, Lois Spute is thinking of doubling the usual run, after Cheryl turned in those two new highs, 224-537, last Tuesday night.

USED FOR MOVIES

Saipan—(AP)—Captured Japanese movie equipment gave veterans of the Second Marine Divisions their first film entertainment in two months.

In an open air theater, set up in a small rock quarry which recently housed several Japanese-infested caves, a battery of 35 mm. projectors and a portable electric generator captured from the Japanese served as power to flash the film on a screen made from an enemy parachute. The film itself was obtained from U. S. naval airmen, and the program opened with a rendition of "Don't Get Around Much Anymore," played on a captured Japanese trumpet.

Picks Decatur

Champaign, Ill., March 15—(AP)—The coach of Taylorville's dethroned champions says their successors will be Decatur.

Looking over the 16-team-field in the Illinois high school basketball tournament finals, Coach Dolph Stanley, only man ever to produce an undefeated state winner, said:

"It's Champaign for smoothness and ball handling, but it's Decatur when it comes to manpower".

And manpower, says Stanley, is mighty handy in a tournament.

Jacksonville Without Public Transportation

Jacksonville, March 15.—(AP)—Jacksonville turned to makeshift transportation today as a work stoppage of drivers and maintenance men of the Elm City Bus Lines disrupted all bus service in the city and to neighboring Beardstown.

Although company officials said they had received no union demands since the stoppage began yesterday afternoon, William Freitag, business manager of local union 466 (AFL) declared the drivers quit work because the lines had failed to recognize the demand for a 10 cents an hour pay increase which was authorized by the War Labor Board in January.

Present pay on the lines which operate on five city routes, is 50 cents an hour.

Uncle Sam Looking for Ducat Scalpers at Cage Tourney

Champaign, Ill., March 15—(AP)—Ticket scalpers were sought today by a dozen federal agents mingling with crowds trying to gain admission to the state high school basketball tournament.

The ticket demand a month ago was nine times the supply, and it has increased during the last week. The season ducats which sell for $1.50 brought fancier figures today.

But Nelson K. Tull, deputy internal revenue collector had a squad of helpers looking out for Uncle Sam in any sidewalk sales. He pointed out the treasury gets 20 per cent of the ticket price. Anyone caught profiteering is subject to a fine of $10,000 or a year in jail or both, if he isn't a licensed ticket broker and isn't giving the government its cut.

Only 2,500 seats were distributed by lot to the general public. They went to lucky persons among 20,000 who applied a month ago.

Most of the others went to fans from towns represented by the 16 competing teams, and to students of these schools.

Tull says most scalpers are amateurs, mostly high school kids who lose interest after a couple of games, either because their favorite team has lost or because they want to go home instead of sleeping in a hotel lobby another night.

He says it's no worse than usual, and is kept pretty much under control.

Ex-Marine Defeats Navy Five Single Handed in Tourney

Kansas City, March 15—(AP)—That old rivalry between the Navy and the Marines cropped up at the National Intercollegiate basketball tournament last night—and an ex-Leatherneck came out on top.

Central College of Fayette, Mo., with a Navy V-12 quintet, had Eastern Kentucky on the ropes when the ex-Marine, Fred Lewis, Maroon forward, took over.

Almost singlehanded Lewis stood off the Gobs and pumped enough shots through the hoop to give his team a 50-48 overtime triumph. Altogether Lewis made 27 points.

The thriling finish came after Loyola of New Orleans had put Philips University of Enid, Okla., out of the tourney 53-31, and Central Normal of Danville, Ind., had bested Catawba of Salisbury, N. C., 53-39, in the last two games of the first round.

Quarter-finals on tonight's bill include West Texas State of Canyon and Perpperdine, Central Normal vs. Loyola and Southern Illinois of Carbondale against Doane College, Crete, Neb.

How Sober Hoskins Got His Name

Everybody kids Sober Hoskins about his name. Of course, they allow that it's appropriate. Sober never drinks anything stronger than a glass of beer. And a harder worker in the fields there never was.

"Shucks," says Sober's dad. "We named Sober 'Sober' just because he looked that way when he was born. Like we called his sister 'Gay,' and his other sister 'Prissy.' And it's had its effect on all of 'em," he adds with spirit. (Prissy is the old maid in the Hoskins family.)

From where I sit, there may be something in what Sober's dad says. Naming children after virtues is a fine old American custom. Look at the names of our pioneers and pilgrims: Faith, Pious, Charity, Hope, Ernest.

Maybe we should use such names more often. And one I'd like to add is "Tolerance." If we all had Tolerance for a middle name, and lived up to it, we'd have a better, happier world.

Mary's LISTENIN' POST

HERE are a couple of letters which came to Dixon this month from Lieutenant Evelyn Street—just "Evelyn" to the many who knew her here as the daughter of the Lester Street family before she went into the service and acquired the dignified title of Lieutenant! From these letters you can gather a bit of first-hand information about how much the time that you put in down at the Red Cross production center is appreciated and how the money you give to the Red Cross funds its way to something the boys really need and appreciate.

"THE sewing kits were a great surprise! I had received a number of boxes and assuming them to be more of the slippers I have been receiving from time to time, I stored them in my closet unopened until we needed more. That day came, and I was quite overwhelmed to find something entirely new and different.

"I am delighted to have them. Some of the enlisted men who work for me were glad to have one—and I find they make popular Bingo prizes. I gave some to our neighboring ward to be used that way too. Bingo is a popular 'sport' with us. It's something in which everyone can participate and can be played easily by the boys who must lie on their backs with legs strung up in traction.

"BINGO without prizes doesn't go over at all, so it keeps me scurrying to dig up enough different things to make it interesting. Fortunately I don't smoke so my rations fall into the Bingo box. I'm gaining so much I've sworn off sweets (at least temporarily) so ditto my rations of candy bars. The boys themselves contribute from their own rations if our supply gets low.

"I'D like for all of you interested in Red Cross work to know what a wonderful job the American Red Cross is doing over here. Whenever we go to a strange town we look in at their headquarters. They offer to the American soldier a place to eat and sleep, comforts and companionships that would be impossible to find anywhere else in war-time England".

THE sewing kits she mentions are small flat home-made cloth creations which contain buttons, safety pins, needles and thread so that the boys may do a little mending in bed if necessary.

THIS other letter is from Lieutenant Street to the members of the Dixon P.E.O. chapter which tells some more about the appreciation for the little comforts that we Americans take for granted.

"BOXES have been dropping in on me in such fantastic profusion that after I've opened them and surveyed my plunder, I'm a bit puzzled as to whom we are indebted for what! Five boxes came today making a popcorn party for tomorrow or next day possible—and increasing articles in my storing place. I do thank you for the wash cloths which we have so badly needed and for the slippers which were—and are a luxury in these parts.

"DIXON P.E.O.'s, D.A.R.'s and members of the Red Cross have certainly contributed much to the comfort and happiness of the boys on my ward—and to my pleasure in being able to give them the extra things that mean so much over here. This bangs you their thanks and mine.

"WE have been having some beautiful weather but it has turned colder again. All winter I've been practically wedded to my beautiful warm afghan that some of you who are also D.A.R.'s helped to make. It has been on duty day and night. When one person in our hut isn't under it someone else is! This has been the climate for things wooly — we have learned to wear them if not gracefully—at least gratefully!

"HOWEVER spring seems to have touched England already and we are beginning to watch for the much talked of hawthorne bloom, and anticipate the glory of the English garden. My love and thanks to you all".

AFTER reading those two letters a person would have to be pretty hard-hearted and self-centered to not have the urge to do something for the boys over there. The Red Cross furnishes one of the easiest and most efficient ways to get just what is needed to exactly the right place at the right time. If you have not given of your time or money as yet, you have neglected your own or your neighbor's boy at the front.

8th. Air Force Pilots Encounter Jet Planes

An Eighth Air Force Fighter Station, England, March 15.—(AP)—Lt. Robert Barnhard of Freeport, Ill., was credited with shooting down an unidentified jet fighter plane as pilots of the U. S. Eighth Air Force accounted for at least four of the nazis' jet-propelled aircraft yesterday.

Increased numbers of the jet fighters took to the air in an attempt to halt the allied offensive and near Siegen Thunderbolts encountered six of the rarely seen Arado 234s, a twin jet bomber, destroying two of them. Another Arado was downed by Capt. Donald Bryan who has notched up 15 enemy planes in combat.

Democrats Oppose Plan to Ban Union Funds in Politics

Senate Investigators Submit Report on Probe of Last Campaign

Washington, March 15—(AP)—The senate campaign investigators split sharply today over a Republican proposal to prevent future political spending by unions.

They agreed there was "no clear cut violation" of the Corrupt Practices Act on the part of the CIO Political Action Committee in the 1944 campaign, but a suggested revision of the act proposed by Senators Ferguson (R-Mich) and Ball (R-Minn) drew Democratic majority dissent.

The Republicans sought a prohibition against "expenditures, as well as contributions, made in connection with any federal election by a corporation, bank or labor organization".

Chairman Green (D-RI); and Senators Stewart (D-Tenn) and Tunnell (D-Del) disagreed on the grounds that such an extension of the Corrupt Practices Act might limit freedom of speech, press and assembly and that prohibitions and sanctions fail to prevent "pernicious political activity."

The clash over union election activity was bundled up in a 250-page report on the 1944 campaign filed with the senate.

The committee, which questioned Sidney Hillman, head of the PAC, said its inquiry developed that while the Corrupt Practices Act prohibits unions and corporations from making contributions in federal elections, it "does not extend the ban to expenditures".

The special campaign investigating committee also:

Fulton Lewis Criticised

1. Criticised Fulton Lewis, Washington radio commentator, for what it said was his refusal to co-operate with the committee in its efforts to run down his charge that employes of a Minnesota shipbuilding concern used "threats and coercion" in soliciting Roosevelt campaign funds.

2. Recommended removal as "utterly unrealistic" of an existing Hatch Act ceiling of $3,000,000 upon receipts and expenditures by political committees and a $5,000 limitation on individual campaign contributions.

The committee said that while the Republican national committee reported spending $2,828,651 and the Democratic national committee $2,056,121, groups supporting the national tickets spent as follows:

Democrats: Independent committees, groups or individuals, $2,327,659; intrastate independent groups, $1,021,618, and state committees, $2,033,370.

Republicans: Independent committees, groups or individuals, $609,291; intrastate independent groups $193,905 and state committees, $9,260,528.

Wants Test Court Case

2. Reported it had referred to the attorney general testimony concerning a complaint by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) against distribution by the Ohio CIO state council of a campaign pamphlet entitled, "He Wanted to Do Business with Hitler and Hirohito—The Amazing Story of Senator Taft".

In doing so, the committee said it recommended a test case to determine whether circulation of the pamphlet could be considered a Democratic campaign contribution under the Corrupt Practices Act.

The committee absolved Taft of CIO complaints that he spent excessive sums in his November election campaign and that he used his position to prevent the CIO from using radio broadcasting facilities in Ohio.

4. Disclosed it had turned over to the justice department information gathered in an investigation of Texas Democratic Senator O'Daniel's weekly newspaper, the W. Lee O'Daniel News. It said the publication collected more than $191,000 and asked the justice department to examine the matter in relation to the Corrupt Practices Act.

5. Reported excessive spending in the Arkansas Democratic primary, "fraud and glaring irregularities" at the polls there, but not "a scintilla of evidence" that the election of Democratic Senator Fulbright was affected in any way.

6. Said it had turned over to the justice department "for consideration and study of the proper enforcement agency" a transcript of testimony concerning the American Democratic National Committee, organized to oppose a fourth term.

The committee said this group, of which former War Secretary Harry Woodring of Kansas once served as chairman, solicited funds with the understanding that contributions would not be publicized. After hearing, it added, the ADNC agreed to file a complete report of its collections with the clerk of the house.

Idle Rumors

Salt Lake City—(AP)—All that stuff about ration boards isn't so, testifies Pvt. Burton Holmes.

While receiving coupons for furlough gasoline from the bord, Holmes left his wallet there.

Although it couldn't be found when he returned to inquire, the sympathetic board employes took up a collection and presented him with $37.

Gas for Gardeners

Chicago, March 15—(AP)—Illinois Victory gardeners who can't get to their plots any other way will be permitted extra gasoline rations again this year, Rae E. Walters, regional OPA administrator, announced.

Applications for the extra rations will be accepted by local ration boards beginning March 26. No garden more than 15 miles from the gardener's home or place of work will qualify. Applicants must also have a garden area of at least 1,500 square feet and mileage during the six-month season may not exceed 300.

Twenty thousand adolescents leave orphanages in search of employment each year. These youngsters have reached an age when they are no longer eligible for support by their respective communities or social agencies.
